

Michael Imhoff

Mike is currently the Director of Purchasing, Materials Management and Information Technology for the Dayton Power & Light Company. He has over 20 years of Supply Chain and IT experience - including a four year stint as the Director of eCommerce Systems for Thomson Learning. While at Thomson Learning, Mike directed the development and implementation of Global B2C and B2B web based catalog and storefront systems - increasing online sales from $630k to over $200M annually, while also decreasing order processing costs by over $1M per year as well. A member of the Dayton Chapter of the Institute of Supply Management, he has taught eBusiness classes at the University of Dayton and International Management classes at Wright State University.

Mike holds a BA degree in Criminal Justice from The State University of New York - Institute of Technology, as well as an MBA from Wright State University.